Ask HN: Does HN need beta testers? - Moosedog I've been lurking on HN for a number of years, and I've learned that there are some kind of regular users that also post comments and vote on articles, stuff like that. I assumed that this was a set of regular users that I could ask for beta testing, but I just learned that HN is open to any comments from those that sign up and make it to the front page. This is a good thing for me because I don't know if my small idea would get that far, but it would be nice to get some early feedback on it if it did, and I was wondering if I could get some help with that. It's probably not too complicated, but I'm no HN regular, so I was wondering if I could get any feedback.So here's my website: only questions that I can think of, if anybody has any, are: Is there a place where I could find a good bunch of beta testers? Should I disclose what my product does? ====== cperciva I don't know why you're asking here, but there is a way to find people who might like to beta test, or at least talk to people who have beta tested products: You can join the beta testing programs for all of the largest companies around. Some of the more open programs are listed in various Wikipedia articles; check out . As far as _disclosing_ what your product does... I'd advise against it. Beta testers are an important aspect of the testing process, but they're not patrons

Cities: Skylines is a city-building game developed by Colossal Order and published by Paradox Interactive. TheÂ .Zhang Yujia Zhang Yujia (; born January 10, 1986) is a Chinese swimmer. She is a member of the Chinese swimming team since the 2000 FINA Swimming World Championships. In the 2004 Olympic Games in Athens, Greece, she swam the medley 100 m in the final, finishing in 3rd place behind Japanese swimmer Yumi Saito (10th, 1:04.91) and Dutch swimmer Inge de Bruijn (4th, 1:06.50). After Athens, she retired from competition and now works as a swimming coach in Shanghai. Zhang was supposed to swim in the 200 m and 100 m backstroke at the 2008 Summer Olympics in Beijing, but she did not compete due to a back injury sustained during the 2004 Olympics. References
